person (about three gallons) passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of brown color. The stomach becomes diseased and Dyspepsis. Indigestion, Constipation, Headache. Biliowness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stom-sch, and general debility follow. MER-RELL'S HEPATINE, the great vegetable discovery for torpidity, causes the Liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses upon yellow complexion or a brown, dirty locking skin, will aston-ish all who try it—they being the first symp-toms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking Hepatine in accordance with directions. Fleadache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given. Take no pills when you can get Hepstine at the same price. Eternal Punishment.

BY THE LATE DR. W. E. MUNSEY.

TEXT—"These shall go away into everlast ing punishment; but the righteous into life eternal."—Matt. xxv., 46.

The eternal punishment of the wicked, the eternal happiness of the righteons, and the eternity of God, as far as Revelation is concerned, form the same building. The universalist has placed his shoulders against the basement pillars, and if he succeed the whole structure talls; but he and his colaborers may toil and sweat, and leave their bones to moulder away in the cellars, but God lives on, the righteons shout on, and the damned groan on-through out eternity-O, E ernity ! The meaning of such a word in its connection with the future punishment of the wicked is dreadful-O. Eternity! Its significance is as high and wide and deep and grand as God is. He fills it, and it fills Him, and all the worlds, and all the mee, and all the demons, and all the angels, but perform their parts in its awful shadow. I can tell you what time is, parts, these parts sestilo relations to each other and the whole-any one of them can be se lected out of the whole and given a name-any one of its parts can furnish an ultimate for the mind to reason about all the others. It can be defined because having parts it can be analyzed. But eternity cannot be defined. Beginningness and endless it eaonot be messared-its past increased, its future diminished. It has no past, it has no future, it has no code, it has no middle, it has no parts—an unausiyzable, tremendous usity. If all the mountains of all the worlds were pressing upon the brain, they could not weigh it down more heavily than etercity's last conception. Is which always was, and is, and always will be. It is coeval with God; it began when He began,

and He had no beginning; it will end when He will end, and He will have no ending. It is an unoriginated, beginningless, endless, measure-less, imperishable, indescribable, undefinable, thing. Itself is its only definition. If asked what is eteroity? we can only answer "Eterthan the suo, older than the stars, older than the angels, as old as God; yet no older now than when worlds, suns, stars, and angels were made, and never will be any older, yet never was any younger. It is infinite circle. A circle itself is unend ing. Mount the car of thunder, drawn by steeds of lightning, and ride around the world, and find the end of the equator. Fasten your horses to your chariot on the Andes, facing to the east. Take the reios, apply the lash, and roll over the flowers, over the trees, over the rivers, over the cities, over the sands, over the islands, over the continents, over the sess, and girdle the world, and girdle it again, and girdle it forever. Where the line begins, and where it ends, you never will find -- O Eternity! Mount Phabus' solar car, and seat yourself beside the driver, and search for the end of the veliptic. Lay on the burning whip, and see the flery maned and foot winged steeds dash through the constellations-admiring worlds standing out of your tracks, and space's abyse gaping teneath you; and drive on till the wheels of your car shall shiver, and the over driven horses die, and you are lost where no angel will find your bones-and you will find no end to the ethereal circle. But these circles are finite, and while you cannot find the end, yet you, in the search form, pass along the same track again and again. Eternity is an isfinite circle, and along its line you may travel forever without reaching your starting poin'an infinite circle, and Now, the portectous NOW, is its centre. Being infinite, its centre is anywhere and everywhere, within its circumference. With reference to us, whatever was now, is now, or will be now, is its centre. We were born in the centre of the circle, we will die in the centre, Eteroity is an infinite line. The strongest winged angel who cleaves the ilimitable other and remain there forever.

may track it, and track it forever, yet he can so more fied its end than he can find the cradle or tomb of Gol. The plodding and incarnated soul of man can find it just as quickly. It is a day without a mercing, a day without an evening-in eternal noon. It was just noon when the world was made, it will be just ncon when the world is destrayed-high noon forever. O Exercity! The idea deepens, widens and towers, till the human mind, confounded and crushed, abricks into inficite littleuess, and frightened, flee into its temple, closes all the duors, and tries to hide its ittle self forever. O Etertity! All languages beg at thy footstool fer one word to tell thy name; and all eciences pile their symbols at thy feet, and implore thee for one illustration of thy length. But thy oracles are dumb because of the dulness of the querist-God can only be thy questioner. And thy vast pendulum besting to the birth and death of worlds, ever vitrating, goes and comes forever—and all that we can do is to of cycles and parent of ages, whose incalculable and incomprehensible value no subtraction can diminish, no addition increase—thou only type of Disty, and day of his duration-what must be thy significance when joined to the stern penslty of sir, thou becomest to the lost Eternal death. Dreadful phrase! It will be written with a nery pen upon all the walis of hell, and seared in every such by the lightning's blaze, and sounded through every dungeon by the thunder's horrid breath. It is the motio upon the seal of God which fastens the doors of woe. There are no farewells in heaven. Such a word never rang in chords of breaking anguish from the harps of the redeemed, or shreiked in their harmonious prefudes, or danced upon their vibrating strings—also, there are no farewells in hell—O Eternity! Eternity!! The thought has made me restless at night.

"Knowing the terror of the Lord." May it ring through your ears. It always is the first motive to prompt a sinner to repent.
